Awareness about legal clinic (10.03.2020)

SRM University provide free legal aid to the deserving sections of the society, Parliament of India has incorporated a specific Directive Principle viz. Article 39-A by 42nd Amendment of Constitution in 1976. Legal aid is a constitutional right supported by Articles 21 and 39-A of the Constitution of India. “Access to Justice” is a basic human right conferred by the common law and exists unless it is taken away under any valid exercise of statutory or constitutional power by the legislature. The word “access” in itself signifies a Right to move towards Remedy. So, an impartial independent judiciary is the guardian of individual rights in a democratic society. In order for citizens to have faith in their court system, all people must have access to the courts when necessary. Let us analyze the difficulties (issues) and challenges in providing free legal assistance to the poor and marginalized people and try to reach out the solutions.
